JARA: Report
Spec on the Horse - Long

Library of Congress

Current material filed under the act is placed through the Government publications brank in four shelves of ~~xxxx~~ a four foot stack section on first floor of library. Material is bundled together with no apparent filing system and consists mainly of Red Chinese magazines, and newsletters from different countries. A majority of the material is from British Information Service. A ten minute thumbing through four small stacks didn't turn up any radio scripts which are supposed to be filed.

Last year's material has been boxed and placed in a three shelf section in a rear locked shelf of the government publications stacks.
At the end of the year, the material is disposed of except for certain of the newsletters which are bound for permanent keeping.

As a sidelight, Lenvin told me that the Library had set aside a room to handle all the material that was flowing up there, but everything turned out to fit on just a few shelves. The man in the stacks who has jurisdiction over the material said I was the first person who had ever come to look at it.

Notes regarding political propaganda filed with the Librarian of Congress in accordance with section 4 (a) of the Foreign Agents Registration Act

Communist China

Rule 402 stipulates that every item of political propaganda filed under section 4 (a) of the Act, shall be marked or stamped conspicuously at the beginning of such item. China Books and Periodicals, 334 W. Schiller Street, Chicago, Illinois, which distributes Chinese Communist booklets, etc. inserts a mimeographed notice between the pages as a manner of complying with this rule. The slips of paper are completely detachable.

Cuba

Many political propaganda items supporting the Government of Fidel Castro which were on file were not labeled. There is ~~no indication~~ ^{mark} on this material to identify the party which filed it. No record is kept of this material as it comes into the library. Material which is not considered to be of permanent value (as determined by the processing officer in the Library of Congress) is destroyed after a period of one year from the date of filing.
